Oregon 550t has a built-in 3-axis tilt-compensated electronic compass, which shows where you're heading even when you're standing still, without holding it level. Its barometric altimeter tracks changes in pressure to pinpoint your precise altitude, and you even can use it to plot barometric pressure over time, which can help you keep an eye on changing weather conditions.

The Garmin 550t has a built in 3 megapixel camera. The camera is of poor quality due to its small and limited aperture. I visited REI while a Garmin representative was on site and he explained that users didn't want to carry both a camera and a GPS unit, and so the 550t is designed to eliminate the need for a point and shoot camera.
